JOB PRINTING.

Our friends will find us prepared at all moments to execute every description of J. PRINTING, with neatness and dispatch on reasonable terms, from Cards up to Book Printing. We are now ready to serve all, a moment's warning.

THE WEEKLY STAR.

We again call the attention of the district public, and those in Washington who have friends at a distance, to our weekly newspaper.

The WEEKLY STAR contains all that is valuable in our daily, including doings in Congress, Washington news, local items, personal matters, news from a distance, anecdotes, tales, and poetry, making it one of the best family newspapers published. The price is only one dollar and twenty-five cents a year.

SPRIT OF THE MORNING PRESS.

The Intelligencer agrees with the Newark Advertiser in the belief that the proper remedy for the existing pressure is to decrease importations. The editor also rubs his hands over the prospect of thrashing the Democracy in Virginia next spring.

The Union comments to-day, for the most part, on Know Nothingism, which it holds to be a phase of fanaticism. The editor also argues that it is controlled, for the most part, by abolition influences, quoting the following from the Maine Temperance Journal to prove the fact, viz:

"The anti-slavery element has controlled the machinery of this order in every non-slaveholding State in the Union, and a large number of anti-slavery men will take their seats in the next Congress, who, but for this order, could not have been elected. If the conductors of the Tribune do not know this fact they are 'know nothings' in reality. If they will take time to inform themselves with regard to election returns in Maine, Michigan, and Wisconsin, they will see, unless they are as blind as bats, that the 'pro-slavery newspapers' do not control this new party."

NEW PUBLICATIONS.—Mrs. Southworth has written another book, entitled the "Wife's Victory," which has been published by Peterson, of Philadelphia, and is for sale by Joe Billington. It is a well drawn picture of American life, in which the heroine has given those finishing touches which could only be done by a genuine artist. The author stands high among the American literati. The Buffalo Express says "she is the best fiction writer in the country," and the New York Mirror coincides in that opinion.

Billington has Harpers' Story Books for Children. He has sent us "Bruno," an instructive and pretty little story about a dog "Peterson's Magazine," for January, beautifully embellished, comes to us from Shillington. This magazine is making rapid strides to keep up with the improving spirit of the day. It is one of the best now published.

WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP.

Where the Responsibility now Rests.—Never before so early in a session has the Committee of Ways and Means progressed so far with the work before them, as at this time. Yesterday, they duly reported to the House the civil and diplomatic appropriation bill, an event which, if we are not greatly mistaken, never took place before as early as the 14th of December. That made the fourth general appropriation bill already committed to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union.

The question now is, will the House second this so praiseworthy despatch of business on the committee's part? Or, will they talk politics?

It will be well for the country to note who occupies the time of Congress in the delivery of political speeches, with the civil and diplomatic appropriation bill formally before them awaiting, with other general appropriation bills, their action. There can be no possible shadow of excuse for putting off the final passage of the great bill of the session until its waning hours. Allowing even two weeks for talking politics, and nothing but politics over it before closing the debate in hour speeches, and it can be easily disposed of in three weeks from the time it may be taken up, which may be done as early as Thursday next.

Again, we urge the country to scan the record well, and note who may occupy the time of Congress at the present session, in talking politics.

The "Carver Grant" at the Falls of St. Anthony.—This claim is for about one hundred miles square, on the east side of the Mississippi, between the Falls of St. Anthony and Lake Pepin. As inquiries are often made in regard to its validity, we have thought it to be of sufficient general interest to ascertain and give public the facts in regard to it.

Captain Jonathan Carver was an officer in the British service, in the war which was terminated by the treaty concluded at Paris in 1763. It was claimed that Carver made a purchase of this extensive tract of country, in the year 1767, of two chiefs of the Nadouissie tribe of Indians.

By the proclamation of October 7, 1763, by the King of Great Britain, the purchase of lands from the Indians by individuals was distinctly prohibited.

The correct policy which dictated that proclamation has been invariably adhered to by the United States. The question, as one of constitutional law, came before the Supreme Court of the United States in the year 1823, in the case of Johnson and Graham's Lessee vs. McIntosh, 8th Wheat. Rep. This was an action of ejectment brought for the recovery of lands in the State of Illinois, claimed by the plaintiff under a purchase and conveyance from the Piankeshaws, and held by the defendant under a grant from the United States. Chief Justice Marshall, in delivering the opinion of the court, stated that "while the different nations of Europe respected the rights of the natives as occupants, they asserted the ultimate dominion to be in themselves, and exercised the power to grant the soil while in the possession of the natives. These grants have been understood by all to convey the title, subject to the Indian right of occupancy. This Government has always acted on the same principle. While it recognized the Indian right of occupancy, it claimed the fee; and the treaties by which we have acquired the possession of such extensive regions of country involve this principle. The consideration paid appears to be intended merely as an equivalent for the peaceable surrender of possession."

The decision in this suit settled, beyond controversy, the question against the power of the Indian tribes to sell lands to private individuals. The Carver claim was, in fact, denied by the Indians themselves, who disclaimed any knowledge of the Indians who signed the grant to Carver; and Carver's Journal, which was published in 1773, is entirely silent in relation to the grant.

It is only necessary to add, that the grant is void, and held by the Government to be of no validity whatever.

A Gross Misapprehension.—The following telegraphic dispatch, emanating from New York, is going the rounds of the press, viz:

WASHINGTON NEWS.—The Washington correspondent of the Evening Post says that Mr. Nicholson of the Union has preferred a claim for twenty-five per cent. extra for services as an employee of the Government, under the last resolution adopted near the close of the last session of Congress. The claim amounts to about $20,000. Mr. Guthrie refused to recognize the claim. Nicholson, Mr. Cushing gave an opinion in his favor, and several members of Congress to say, by certificates, that they meant to include Nicholson in the resolution. Mr. Guthrie dissents from the Attorney General, and says to the members of Congress that they must declare legislatively their meaning, and not by certificates.

Now, on investigation, we find that the correspondent of the Post said nothing of the sort concerning the Attorney General alleged by the New York telegraphic agent. He stated simply that the claim was fortified by an opinion of the chief law officer of the Government, that it is a valid claim, which is very different indeed from proclaiming that the claimant had procured (got) such an opinion to be rendered. But it actually turns out that the Attorney General has given no opinion, verbal or in writing, whatever on the subject, to the Secretary of the Treasury or any one else, the case never having been referred to him.

CONGRESSIONAL.

In the House, yesterday, after we went to press, the consideration of private bills in Committee of the Whole House, (Mr. McMillin in the chair), was continued until the following bills were laid aside to be favorably reported on to the House, viz: For the relief of Ferdinand Clark; of Adolphus Mier & Co., of St. Louis; of Wilson & Brothers, of St. Louis.

The bill for the relief of Charles A. Kellett was laid aside to be reported back with an unfavorable recommendation.

The bill for the relief of the children and heirs of Major General Baron DeKalb was then taken up and debated by Messrs. Corwin, Peckham, Ketcher, May, Keitt, and Boyce for it, and Messrs. Lott, Milson, and Simmons against it.

Mr. Peckham moved to amend the bill by reducing the appropriation proposed from $90,500 to $66,000.

Mr. Lottcher moved to amend the amendment by striking out $60,000 and inserting in lieu thereof $27,400; not agreed to.

The amendment of Mr. Peckham being next agreed to, the committee rose, and its action was reported to the House, which confirmed the action of the Committee of the Whole House, passing all the bills favorably reported on from the committee, including the DeKalb bill as amended, and rejecting the bill for the relief of Charles A. Kellett.

The House then adjourned until Monday next.

COMMODORE STOCKTON AND THE KNOW NOTHING.

Commodore Stockton, who has an eye to the Presidency, has recently come out with the following letter in favor of the Know Nothings.

PRINCETON, Dec. 6, 1834.

A. McLANE ROBINETT, Esq.,

Wilmington, Delaware:

Dear Sir: I have received your letter of November 23, and I thank you for the sentiments of friendly commendation which it expresses.

Though withdrawn from public life, nevertheless I am not insensible to emotions of gratification when I find my principles or my past conduct the subject of just and generous appreciation. Yet it is with unfeigned reluctance that I comply with the duty of answering your letter, lest it should be construed into a desire on my part to re-appear on the political arena. I have no such desire. The turbulence of political strife has no charms for me; my tastes, inclinations and happiness lead me to prefer the tranquility of private life.

But as I approved of the principles of the American party when in its infancy, I am unwilling that it should be believed now, when it exists in the vigor of manhood, that I have become derelict to those principles, or that I can refuse on any proper occasion to avow myself to be an American Democrat, or shrink from the maternal recognition of those who designed my principles, no matter under what name, the history of our country since I first approved your principles, has only strengthened and confirmed the opinions which I entertained at the period to which you refer.

To your first interrogatory, therefore, I answer and say—I am in favor of confining all executive and administrative functions of office to American born.

In relation to your second interrogatory, I answer that I am in favor of "an extension of the period of naturalization, from five years to at least twenty years, or a total repeal of the naturalization laws, as in the wisdom of the people may seem fit."

Demagogues should no longer be permitted to manufacture herds of freshly imported aliens into voters to nullify the voice of Americans in the ballot box. The corrupt rivalry of parties for the purchase of foreign-born voters must cease. It never will cease, however, until the swarms of emigrants who monthly land on our shores shall cease to be offered for sale at the highest bidder.

In avowing the principle that "Americans alone should rule America," I do not understand you to approve the disfranchisement of the foreign born who already possess the right of voting. The larger proportion of our adopted fellow-citizens, at least the most intelligent among them, I believe are perfectly satisfied that the time has arrived when our naturalization laws should be altered or repealed. That portion of them which does not constitute the staple of political traffic, fully appreciate the dignity and high prerogative of sovereignty which they enjoy as American citizens. True to the country of their adoption, they are unwilling to jeopardize its institutions to benefit foreign emigrants, even from the land of their own native birth.

To your third interrogatory I answer: Being a Christian people, it seems to me that to preserve our posterity in the faith of their fathers, we can do no less than to secure to our children always perfect freedom of access to the Holy Scriptures, without "note or comment."

While frankly expressing this opinion, I must say, also, that I agree with you, that any condition between sectarianism and politics, or between Church and State, whether Protestant or Papist, would be dangerous to liberty, and hostile to the spirit and genius of the American Constitution.

You allude to my presentation of petitions, (which in the Senate of the United States), in favor of the exclusion of foreign paupers and convicts. On that subject I will only say, that had I deemed the subject propitious, such was my sentiment of the dangers and evils of the importation of that class of foreigners, I should have felt it my duty to propose a capitation import tax upon such emigrants, which would have effectually excluded them from our ports. That such a measure of precaution has not more earnestly been urged upon Congress by the municipal authorities of our great cities, which are the chief sufferers from the influx of foreign paupers and felons, shows to what extent indifference to the foreign element has influenced the action of those entrusted with the public safety. Faithfully your obedient servant and friend.

R. F. STOCKTON.

ALEXANDRIA CORRESPONDENCE.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 16, 1854.

Weather—Death—Potomac River Boat—Aground—Panorama—Navigation.

A damp, humid morning meets us to-day. Business, however, continues to thrive, and our streets are thronged with shoppers.

We regret to announce the demise of Capt. George Fletcher, who died at his residence this morning at 4 o'clock. He had been suffering for many months under an attack of paralysis. An old resident of our city, his loss will be much regretted.

On Thursday evening a meeting was held of those interested in the river trade. A large number of business men attended, and preliminary steps were taken to secure a steamer to ply regularly upon the Potomac, touching at the various landings.

The steamer Baldwin, on her passage up yesterday, ran aground near Goose Point, delaying the mail several hours.

Billard's Panorama of New York City opens in our city next Wednesday, and will exhibit several weeks. The excellence of the painting cannot fail to attract large audiences.

River navigation is still seriously obstructed by floating ice.
